TIP:

This book provides a great opportunity for children to learn that different animals make different sounds. With very young children, imitate the sounds the animals in the book make, such as roaring, snorting and hissing. When your child learns the words and sounds of this book, ask him or her to make the sound with you. You can also say the word “roaring,” and have your child make the sound.

SKILL:

Perspective Taking involves understanding the perspectives of others, including what they sound like. To take the perspectives of others, you have to put aside your own thoughts and feelings, which calls on Executive Function skills.

The back and forth interaction you have with your child in sharing this story is what researchers call “serve and return.” Like a game of ball, one of you says or does something (serves) and the other responds (returns). The importance of these everyday interactions to brain building is a key finding from child development research.

TIP:

On the last page of the book, children pretend to be the animals. Have your child pretend, too.

SKILL:

Pretending is an important way children learn to take the perspectives of others.

TIP:

After you have read this story, use the refrain in your everyday life, saying to your child: “[Your child’s name, your child’s name], what do you hear?”

Have your child listen for all of the different sounds around him or her, like the sounds of birds, honking horns, etc.

SKILL:

Perspective Taking is promoted by asking questions, imitating and repeating.
